

ABSTRACT

A refuse vehicle is disclosed that includes a control system which comprises a plurality of microprocessor based interface modules, a communication network, and at least one output device. The control
5 system is configured to disable the output device based on certain conditions of the refuse vehicle.